HONORED ALUMNI

Induction Ceremony

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN COLORADO ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The University of Northern Colorado Alumni Association engages current and future alumni and the University through programs, benefits and services to enrich lifelong relationships.

The UNCAA was established by Colorado State College president Darrell Holmes, who recognized the need for an organized alumni group. As a result, he appointed a steering committee to study the feasibility of creating a strong alumni group. In May 1965, the first Alumni Association board was elected, composed of some of the most active proponents of an organized alumni association. Today, the UNCAA is the vehicle for more than 120,000 alumni to engage with alma mater.

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN COLORADO HONORED ALUMNI AND FRIENDS

The University of Northern Colorado boasts outstanding alumni and dedicated friends from all walks of life. Each year, the UNC Alumni Association recognizes some of our most distinguished alumni and friends at the Honored Alumni and Service Awards celebration during Homecoming Weekend. The Honored Alumni and Service Awards are the highest awards the Alumni Association can bestow. Selected by the Alumni Association Board of Directors, these awards date back to 1947.

To nominate alumni and friends deserving of these honors, please visit uncalumni.org. A full listing of past honorees is also available online.

YOUNG ALUMNA'S SPIRIT CAPTURED ON BROADWAY

AUTUMN HURLBERT
BA-02

Autumn Hurlbert (BA-02) is another graduate of the University of Northern Colorado's School of Performing and Visual Arts who has found the spotlight on stage.

Hurlbert's success as a performer just 10 years after graduation, paired with her genuine character, has earned her another accolade—the UNC Alumni Spirit Award.

Best known for landing the first runner-up position on the MTV reality series Legally Blonde: The Search for the New Elle Woods, Hurlbert earned a part in the ensemble and was the understudy for the lead role in the Broadway production. Hurlbert's career has included numerous performances on and off Broadway, with national touring companies, in regional theater, film and television.

"There are so many UNC alumni thriving in New York City. I've always had a family here and felt a strong sense of support all the way across the country."

She credits her UNC education as the foundation upon which she continues to build her work.

Moving from Greeley to New York City was one of her biggest challenges, but she knew she would find a supportive alumni family there.

"There are so many UNC alumni thriving in New York City," she said. "I've always had a family here and felt a strong sense of support all the way across the country."

ALUMNUS OPENED DOORS FOR JOURNALISM STUDENTS

DR. WAYNE MELANSON
EDS-75

From the time he set foot on the University of Northern Colorado campus as a graduate student, Dr. Wayne Melanson (EdS-75) was poised to give back to the university and to the program that helped him achieve his academic and career goals.

As a Journalism professor and later chair of the department at UNC, Melanson became known for encouraging students to follow their dreams and then supporting them with resources and opportunities.

Melanson established UNC's chapters of the National Association of Black Journalists, the Society of Professional Journalists and the Association of Women in Communications. It is for his contributions like these, and his personal commitment to students that UNC is proud to honor Melanson with the 2012 Distinguished Service Award.

During a career that spanned more than three decades at UNC, Melanson treasured his time interacting with students outside of the classroom. He founded and led numerous student organizations that enabled him to connect with students and help them find their way to the careers they desired. And it is the resulting personal relationships that he values most, keeping in touch with many former students today.

"My fondest memory as a UNC student was the incredible, supportive faculty from the moment I walked in the door."

"He transformed my life. But he didn't only have an impact on my life, he affected many lives over the course of many years," said Anita Fleming-Rife (BA-79, MA-90), now the Special Assistant to the President for Diversity and Equity at UNC.

As a faculty member, Melanson's dedication to helping students was a reflection of his student experience at UNC. "My fondest memory as a UNC student was the incredible, supportive faculty from the moment I walked in the door."

He walked in and out of UNC's doors several times, leaving his tenured position to complete doctoral coursework in Tennessee and later to teach in Nebraska and Texas. Melanson returned to Greeley after four years and again earned tenure at UNC. He retired in spring 2011.

EVERYTHING IS POSSIBLE FOR ALUMNUS WHO KEEPS GIVING BACK

THEO HOLLAND
BA-61

Theo Holland (BA-61) is no stranger to winning awards at the University of Northern Colorado. He was inducted into the Athletics Hall of Fame in 2005 for his achievements in Basketball and Track & Field. And his commitment to mentoring at-risk youth is commendable. But it is for his significant contributions on behalf of the university and Alumni Association that we honor Theo Holland with the 2012 Distinguished Alumni Service Award.

Holland served as the UNC Alumni Association president from 2005-2007. He also has served on the UNC Foundation Board, and on an Athletics Strategic Planning committee that resulted in UNC's admission to the NCAA Division I Big Sky Conference.

During his time at UNC, Holland was an all-conference basketball player and the first African-American player to compete in Kentucky's Memorial Coliseum. On that December 1959 road trip led by coach John Dunn, Holland was also the first African-American to stay in an all-white hotel in Lexington.

"I give back because I got so much from UNC."

A Greeley native, Holland was well known in the community before he made history on the basketball court, being named the best player in the state by the Denver newspapers in 1959.

After graduating with a degree in Physical Education/Health Education, Holland worked as a mediator for the U.S. Air Force in England. He then went on to be the Director of Special Services and later the Recreation Services Manager for the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs.

Following his military career, Holland worked as a counselor at Mitchell High School and later the Dean of Students at Community Prep School, both in Colorado Springs. Today, as a counselor at ComCor, Inc., he still mentors and encourages people to improve their lives.

Though his career and family are now in Colorado Springs, Holland still makes time to return to UNC and plans to continue giving back to the school that he says gave him so much.

ALUMNA LEGENDARY IN DENVER SCHOOLS FOR MOTIVATING HISPANIC YOUTH

FERNIE BACA HAYES
BA-61

Fernie Baca Hayes (BA-61) has a passion for helping others. And through her personal commitment, education and professional experience she has turned her passion into practice. For that, the University of Northern Colorado is proud to name Fernie Baca Hayes as the 2012 Distinguished Alumna.

From being an influential teacher in Denver Public Schools to becoming a tenured professor in the School of Education at the University of Colorado at Denver, Hayes has made a difference on many levels—for individual students and in academic policy.

Hayes was the Associate Vice Chancellor for Research/Creative Activities at University of Colorado at Denver. She has been recognized for her work encouraging Hispanic youth to stay in school and attend college with more than 20 awards throughout her career, including the Bernie Valdez Award for Excellence in Education from the Latin American Research and Service Agency (LARASA), and the Woman of Distinction award from Girl Scouts of Colorado.

"My fondest UNC memory is being a part of the Sociedad Hispanica with Dr. Candelaria."

After graduating from UNC, Hayes worked in Denver Public Schools where she was mentored by Bernie Valdez, an icon in the Denver Hispanic and education communities and founder of LARASA. Valdez suggested Hayes coordinate an Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title 1 project to motivate Latino youth to complete high school and attend college, which was Hayes' favorite project.

After retiring with emerita status in 2001, Hayes established the Fernie Baca Scholarship Fund at the University of Colorado at Denver to increase educator effectiveness in supporting the academic learning of English-language learners.

The Baca family has a strong presence in Colorado history. Growing up in Greeley, Hayes' mother inspired her three daughters to overcome prejudice and go to college—and they all exceeded her expectations. Hayes' sister Polly was the first Hispanic woman appointed to the Colorado senate in 1978, and her sister Bettie is a consultant in Washington, D.C.

HONORARY ALUMS SHAPING THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION AND GREELEY

BOB AND BETTY TOINTON

The Tointon Institute for Educational Change is a gift that is truly making a difference at the University of Northern Colorado. But the institute, which has provided leadership training for K-12 educators since 1995, is just one of many examples of Bob and Betty Tointon's impact on today's students.

"I've had the privilege of knowing Bob and Betty for decades and I knew them first as philanthropists and community leaders," said UNC President Kay Norton.

The Tointons not only enhance UNC's mission of translating theory into practice with the Tointon Institute for Educational Change, but they also support many other programs that benefit both students and the community. From world-class entertainment at the College of Performing and Visual Arts to enriching athletic programs to award-winning academics at the Monfort College of Business and all of the educational opportunities available to UNC students, the Tointons believe in UNC's vision.

"The main reason we support UNC, in addition to it being in Greeley, is how important we feel higher education is."

Well-known at UNC and throughout Northern Colorado, Bob is a past Chairman of the UNC Board of Trustees and the recipient of an honorary doctorate from UNC. Betty has received the United Way Humanitarian award and was a co-founder of the Weld County Women's Fund endowment. For these contributions and many more, we are honored to name Bob and Betty Tointon as UNC's Distinguished Honorary Alumni of 2012.

"The main reason we support UNC, in addition to it being in Greeley, is how important we feel higher education is," Bob said. "Higher education is the 'hand up,' rather than the 'handout.'"

The Tointons' generous support is enabling many students to achieve their academic goals at UNC and then go on to thrive in meaningful careers that benefit our communities.

ALMA MATER

Ah! Well I remember, Friends of "Purple and Gold."
Friends met in September, Pledging their Faith to hold.
Gone, Friends of September, Gone dear friends of old.
Time never shall sever, Friends of "Purple and Gold."
Time never shall sever, Friends of "Purple and Gold."
