Alumni Association

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN COLORADO ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The University of Northern Colorado Alumni Association engages current and future alumni and the University through programs, benefits and services to enrich lifelong relationships.

The UNCAA was established by Colorado State College president Darrell Holmes, who recognized the need for an organized alumni group. As a result, he appointed a steering committee to study the feasibility of creating a strong alumni group. In May 1965, the first Alumni Association board was elected, composed of some of the most active proponents of an organized alumni association. Today, the UNCAA is the vehicle for over 125,000 alumni to engage with alma mater.

THE HONORED ALUMNI AND SERVICE AWARDS

The University of Northern Colorado boasts outstanding alumni and dedicated friends from all walks of life. Each year, the UNC Alumni Association recognizes some of our most distinguished alumni and friends at the Honored Alumni and Service Awards celebration during Homecoming weekend. The Honored Alumni and Service Awards are the highest awards the Alumni Association can bestow. Selected by the Alumni Association Board of Directors, these awards date back to 1947.

To nominate alumni and friends deserving of these honors, please visit www.uncalumni.org. A full listing of past honorees is also available online.

ALUMNI SPIRIT AWARD: JAMES KAWIKA RILEY, BA-05

JAMES KAWIKA RILEY
BA-05

Currently the Washington D.C. Bureau Chief for the Office of Hawaiian Affairs, James has served in many high-profile communication roles for the federal government.

Prior to his current role, James was the Mid-Atlantic Spokesman for the Transportation Security Administration, and Communications Director for the U.S. Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

James also teaches courses in Native American Political Leadership for George Washington University's Graduate School of Political Management. Many Native American, Alaskan Native, Pacific Islander and other indigenous scholars seek out his classes.

"James is a mentor to his students, as well as his friends and colleagues," said Nathan Havey, a fellow UNC alumnus. "He is a man of incredible drive, integrity and vision."

James was born and raised on Hawai'i Island and graduated from Kealakehe High School. One of the few from his social circle to go to college, he has always been passionate about helping others and is a well-respected advocate for native people of many cultural backgrounds.

"James is a mentor to his students, as well as his friends and colleagues."

In his spare time, James is the CEO and Founder of the Pacific Islander Access project, a nonprofit that is dedicated to increasing higher education opportunities for Pacific Islander Americans.

Read James' guest column on the UNC Bear Den blog (uncbearden.tumblr.com).

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD: RONNA L. SANCHEZ BA-80, BS-82, MA-88, PHD-00

BA-80, BS-82, MA-88,
PHD-00

A lifelong learner with four UNC degrees, Ronna served our university for more than 30 years, mentoring countless students while creating a student-centered environment to foster young leaders.

Ronna retired in 2012 and everyone whose life she touched will agree that campus is not quite the same without her. She dedicated a significant portion of her professional life to UNC, serving on more than 45 committees and boards during her 30 years of employment. In addition to working with numerous UNC groups, she also enjoys volunteering with many Greeley nonprofits.

Most recently, Ronna served as the Director of the University Center. In 2012, she received the Engaged Scholar Award for her outstanding work to increase scholarship and research on community issues and achievements in community engagement both on and off campus. Upon completing her doctorate in College Student Personnel Administration in 2000, Ronna was honored with the Graduate Dean's Citation for Excellence, an award granted to students in recognition of superior academic achievement in graduate studies.

"Ronna left an indelible mark on the university that she loved and served."

"Ronna left an indelible mark on the university that she loved and served," said Jay Dinges, University Center Director. "I, for one, cannot imagine my career without the tutelage, mentoring and friendship that were a part of my everyday work environment thanks to Ronna."

Prior to retirement as Director of the University Center, Ronna also served as Director of Off-Campus Housing, Associate Director of Student Activities, and Campus Activities Advisor and several other positions.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI SERVICE AWARD: STEVE BAKER, BA-86

STEVE BAKER
BA-86

To the many, many people who know him, Steve Baker is all about UNC. A successful Greeley real estate agent, Steve gets to know just about everyone who comes into town and he always has news to share about the University.

“Steve is an absolute cheerleader for the University,” said Chalice Springfield, CEO of Sears Real Estate in Greeley. “He talks to students of all ages about the value of higher education and he encourages them to get on campus and get involved with UNC.”

Former President of the UNC Alumni Association, Steve has been a dedicated volunteer and advocate for UNC for more than 27 years. He has served on numerous committees including the UNC Foundation Board of Directors, UNC School of Performing and Visual Arts Community Advisory Board, UNC Blue and Gold Board of Directors, and the Northern Vision Advisory Board. An avid supporter of athletics, Steve is credited with helping create the Men’s Basketball Roundball Club.

“Steve is an exemplary picture of what an alum should and could do for their alma mater.”

A lifelong Greeley resident, Steve is also involved with other community organizations including the Greeley Area Realtors Association, the Northern Colorado Medical Center Foundation, the chamber of commerce and more. A tireless volunteer and advocate, Steve’s expertise is in high demand among area nonprofits.

But Steve is valued for more than putting in volunteer hours or fulfilling committee initiatives. He is recognized for bringing the ideal of “service” to life through his words and actions. He serves UNC with pride and grace, and his genuine admiration for the university always shines through.

“Steve is an exemplary picture of what an alum should and could do for their alma mater,” Springfield said. “I cannot think of anyone more deserving of this award than Steve Baker.”

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS OF THE YEAR AWARD: RICHARD KILLMER, BA-60

RICHARD KILLMER
BA-60

Richard Killmer is Professor of Oboe at the renowned Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester and has been recognized as one of the greatest oboists of the past fifty years. He was the principal oboist for the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra for 11 years.

In 2011, Dr. Killmer was awarded an Honorary Life Membership in the International Double Reed Society, and this year the international professional music society Mu Phi Epsilon, will honor him as their “Musician of the Year.”

In addition to being an unparalleled performer, Richard is an outstanding educator. He is the 2006 recipient of the Yale School of Music’s Gustave Stoeckel Excellence in Teaching award. He also served as a Visiting Professor of Oboe at Yale for six years. Many of Richard’s former students have earned major teaching and performing positions in universities and symphony orchestras throughout the United States.

“Richard has been revered by an endless number of students and professionals throughout the United States and other countries.”

As a Professor at Eastman, students and faculty hold Richard in the highest esteem. Recently, more than 70 first-year oboists auditioned for the six available spaces in his program.

“From his start as my student-teacher in Longmont, Colorado, to his steady and solid rise to a professional performer and superb teacher of music and oboe, he has been revered by an endless number of students and professionals throughout the United States and other countries,” said Kenneth Evans, Emeritus Professor of Music at UNC.

Richard has played with the Boston Symphony, Oklahoma City Symphony and San Diego Chamber Orchestra, among others. During his three years in the Army he was principal oboist with the NORAD Band and baritone saxophonist in the NORAD Commander’s Dance Band, performing on numerous recordings and television programs.

DISTINGUISHED HONORARY ALUMNI OF THE YEAR AWARD: HANK AND NAN BROWN

HANK AND NAN BROWN

Hank and Nan were instrumental in the growth of the University of Northern Colorado and provided exemplary leadership in the greater Greeley community. They called Greeley home for decades.

“Hank and Nan have always been dedicated to the University of Northern Colorado, to the Greeley community, to Colorado, and to the nation,” said Dick Monfort, chairman of the UNC Board of Trustees. “They have an extraordinary commitment to public service that has bettered all of our lives.”

Hank Brown was the 11th president of UNC, serving from 1998 to 2002. As president, he increased admissions standards and maintained the lowest faculty-to-student teaching ratio of any four-year university in Colorado. Fundraising increased during his tenure and he secured several major gifts, including the transformational gift that gave the Monfort College of Business its name.

Hank served Colorado in the U.S. Senate for six years and completed five consecutive terms in the U.S. House of Representatives. He also served in the Colorado State Senate from 1972 to 1976. From 1962 to 1966, Hank served in the U.S. Navy where he volunteered in Vietnam and was decorated for his combat service as a forward air controller.

“They have an extraordinary commitment to public service that has bettered all of our lives.”

Hank is an attorney with the Denver law firm of Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck and serves on the board of directors of the Daniels Fund. He was previously the president of the University of Colorado and a vice president at Monfort of Colorado.

Hank and Nan were married in 1967. They currently reside in Denver and enjoy spending time with their children and grandchildren.

The Browns made a profound and lasting impact at the University, which continues to influence higher education today.
